RE: Attempted Site Inspection, DOE/O19/O34, Delores #5

An attempt was made to visit this proposed placer site on April 27, 1987. The site can be reached by taking the gravel road at the old Dewey Bridge for 3.8 miles in a southeasterly direction. At this point, turn north onto the Cowskin Canyon Road. Take this dirt road until you reach the Delores River. The site is located two miles further to the east, and it is necessary to follow the river bottom and ford the river to reach it. High water levels in the river made this impossible. A second attempt will be made later in the year.
